MOBILE TESTING SERVICES

On-Site Services to Benefit Your Business

As an employer, what worries you about your workplace?

- Increased healthcare costs
- Job-related medical liabilities
- Workers' compensation
- OSHA regulations

With a customizable employee testing and health surveillance program designed by St. Luke's Center for Occupational Health Excellence, employers can put those worries to rest. St. Luke's offers a comprehensive list of services to meet any company's needs, as well as the requirements of OSHA and NIOSH.

Testing At Your Doorstep

Testing can be performed on-site for business clients in order to provide convenience for employers and their employees. With the St. Luke's mobile testing unit, businesses will benefit from convenient, cost-effective service that minimizes expenses. St. Luke's saves businesses the cost of transporting employees to an off-site location and minimizes employees time away from the job.

To make on-site testing successful, scheduling is a key factor. A St. Luke's representative will work closely with each employer to develop an examination schedule conducive to the industry. In addition, employees will be oriented to the testing program to make the process more efficient.

Testing Follow-up

Upon completion of testing, individual employee reports will be sent to the employer for distribution. For respiratory and hearing testing, St. Luke's manages a computerized tracking base. These reports form an archive for future baseline comparisons and establish a statistical basis for further epidemiological studies in respiratory and hearing testing.

Ready To Serve You

Let St. Luke's Center for Occupational Health Excellence be your partner in creating and managing an effective and convenient testing and health surveillance program.
